Napa Valley Art Festival comes to Yountville

Works by Napa artist Steve Gordon will be on display at the annual Napa Valley Art Festival. Submitted photos

More than 300 original paintings by 31 of the West's premier representational artists will be on exhibit at the third annual Napa Valley Art Festival Saturday at the Yountville Community Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Admission is free. Net proceeds from sales of the works will benefit the Connolly Ranch Education Center in Napa. In its first two years, the festival drew crowds of more than 1,000 visitors, 70 percent of whom came from outside Napa County.

It generated $150,000 in sales, according to organizer Bob Pallas.

Other Napa county artists participating in the festival this year include Kristine Pallas, Don Hatfield and Paul Youngman. For details, visit www.NapaValleyArtFestival.com.
